THE PASTORALS ON SUNDAY

A week-by-week resource from the Pastoral Letters of the Bishops' of Rome, of the Second Vatican Council, and of the Bishops' Conference of the United States

SIXTEENTHSUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Jeremiah 23:1-6	I shall appoint shepherds for them.
Ephesians 2:13-18	He announced the good news of peace.
Matthew 6:30-34	They were like sheep without a shepherd.

The bishops in their role as shepherds and teachers have the task of forming public opinion by presenting a vision of peace and justice in keeping with the gospel of Jesus Christ.

In a human being, in a society, in the world, when one member suffers all suffer.

A STEWARDSHIP MOMENT

In his letter to the Ephesians community, St. Paul teaches that God, the Father, has established a divine plan to bring all of creation to Christ and that He has blessed us with the divine gifts to help implement that plan. Christian stewards know what their gifts are and remain committed to using them in the service of the Lord. Do we know what our gifts are? Do we believe that God has given us these gifts? Are we committed to using our gifts to serve the Lord?

A gospel meditation for the home
July 15th, 2018 – 15th Sunday in Ordinary Time
Mark 6:7-13

Here are your orders for your first apostolic “sales” trip. Take one walking stick, no extra clothes, no food (you’ll be able to eat when you arrive at a welcoming destination) and travel with one other person. Two-by-two — like Noah’s Ark.

Thus began the first venture at evangelization by the disciples of Jesus. They were also told to keep their message simple. If anyone does not want to listen to their “pitch,” they are to simply bid them adieu and move on to the next household. Mark’s gospel is disappointingly brief in this description. We’d like to know more.

I have always wondered about that two-by-two arrangement. We tend to think of Christian missionaries (which is what they were in this account) as soloists. Accounts of the apostles seem focused on the accomplishments of individuals. For instance, Peter did this and Paul did that.

But a careful reading (and research on the early church) seems to indicate that they were not always alone. They worked in a communal way. That’s because the Christian life is deeply communal. Recall that Jesus taught that the first commandment (love God) and the second commandment (love neighbour) were actually the same commandment.

So, it should not be surprising that Jesus told his first missionaries to do their ministry together. As a community or as a team.

Further, as Christians we believe there exists a communal aspect to God. God is one and three – at the same time! God’s very existence is communal. St. John the Evangelist will conclude his teachings by saying simply that God is love. And he’s not describing self-love but love of another.

One final thought. The communication of the faith is to be straightforward and simple. If the communication given is not welcomed or well received, Jesus tells his missionaries (a favorite idea of Pope Francis) to move on. People are either ready to receive their message or they are not. There is no forcing of the Gospel. And certainly, it is not to be communicated as threatening. That’s the way it was to be communicated back then and it should be so today.
