READINGS FOR STS. PETER AND PAUL, APOSTLES JUNE 29, 2025

Acts 12:1-11

Timothy 4:6-8, 17-18

Matthew 16:13-19

PRACTICE OF FAITH

As role models, Sts. Peter and Paul both have their weak points. One denied and abandoned Jesus at the hour of his deepest need; one spent the first half of his life persecuting Christians. Yet despite their weaknesses both were chosen and sent. At various times in their mission, "the Lord stood by" them and gave them power. Their weaknesses makes them suited to encourage and empower us.

✠ Weak as we are, with faith all of us may be evangelizers and defenders of the Church. Read the story of the life of St. Paul. Pray for the courage to evangelize a secular world.

See below.

✠ Most of us don't live in circumstances where we are called to be martyred or imprisoned for our faith, but all can be welcome people. Invite someone to a Bible study or parish event. ✠ Offer to pray for someone who struggles with their faith. At Home with the Word 2025

THE HISTORY OF ST. PAUL

St. Paul's conversion to Christianity is one of the most important events in history. This monumental event occurred during his travel to Damascus. He was on the road to Damascus when suddenly he had a vision that changed his life, his views, and his reason for being. He saw the Lord who came to him in a blinding light. Paul was temporarily blinded by this light; it was so brilliant. He believed that his vision proved that Jesus was the Messiah and the Son of God, and that He would return. He believed that this event was to tell him that he was chosen by God to Damascus where he remained for three years, after which he went to Jerusalem to meet and get to know the leading apostles there. It was after this that he began his famous missions to the west.

A Gospel meditation for your home
June 22, 2025 – Body and Blood of Christ
Luke 9:11-17

To sustain human life, we need nourishment. Primarily that comes from consuming healthy food and drink. In most parts of the world there is enough food. But in some regions, insufficiency reigns. And this is not just a personal problem, but it is also a moral one. The Earth probably produces enough for all, but it is poorly distributed in some areas. Feeding the hungry is one of the corporal works of mercy. Lessening hunger should be a goal for all of us.

Today's gospel is chosen for this Sunday when we recall the gift of spiritual nourishment Jesus instituted in the Eucharist as food for our spirits. But it is also an opportunity for us to reflect on the matter of world hunger, one of the more unacknowledged and pressing needs in our world today. To help us make feeding the hungry more of a concern to us, we do well to meditate about the feeding of the multitudes by Jesus on a day when there seemed to be not enough food for those gathered to hear him. His close disciples, being ever vigilant (sometimes), noticed that the day was well on and they were far from any place that might serve them needed food. The crowd needed to be fed.

In response to this matter Jesus suggested what to many might have seemed an impractical solution. He inquired from his disciples what food they had brought for themselves. Five loaves of bread and two fish, they said. Jesus immediately directed them to pass out to the crowd all they had! All the loaves and the two fish. As they began following the directions of Jesus, the crowd noticed what they were doing. Then came the miracle!

Suddenly many of those in the crowd began to unwrap the carefully hidden bread they had brought just for themselves. They broke it into bite size pieces and passed it out to those who had none. Soon everyone had their fill. We know how the story ended. Once all shared all that they had, just as Jesus and his disciples had done, everyone had enough to eat. In fact, more than enough.

And I like to add one further thought. It was on that marvellous day that Jesus also invented one of my favorite forms of nourishment, leftovers! Whenever leftovers are on the family menu, I give thanks to Jesus as I experience the multiplication of meatloaf and creamy mashed potatoes from yesterday's dinner.
